LitC: LitC conducted a story writing workshop named 'Aatman By Suditi' that was steered by Ms. Suditi, a famed writer and entrepreneur who is involved in workshops that are geared towards character transformation through creative writing. In addition to the workshop, LitC organized a story writing competition named "Fabricate". It was a dual-prompt story writing competition where participants were given prompts to start and end their write-ups while building their premise around the same. Ingenious attempts at creating a coherent story line based on the choice of prompts were rewarded.

Quizone: Quizone, the Quiz Club of NISER conducted the third edition of Te Quizero, the general quiz conducted for Umang for the last three years. Topics ranged from Entertainment, Sports, Science, History, and everything under the sun. Each team consisted of a maximum of two people from all batches, and around 30 team's participated. The quiz was conducted in two rounds. Six teams were selected for the finals from the first round, which was a written round. The finals consisted of multiple rounds, each round having its own unique twist, which played to the teams' advantage or disadvantage. The questions themselves were entangled with clues and had to be worked out with much thought. The event was a massive success and gained a lot of appreciation from the participants on the quality and kind of questions that were asked.

Yoga Club: On the occasion of Umang, the yoga club organized a Yoga and Fitness Event which was instructed by Satyabrata Jena, an experienced yoga practitioner, and trainer. The event was conducted early in the morning at the meditation center of NISER. Around 20 participants participated in the event and enjoyed the process from various exercises, and asanas to meditation. The event started with some stretching exercises. In the background of some music, the level of difficulty increased and many new asanas were introduced to the participants. The session ended with a guided meditation and a small felicitation program was done afterward.

Maths Club: The MathematiX Club of NISER organised an Integration Bee event during Umang 2022. This was a battle of fast thinking and accuracy where participants had to fight each other in so called Integration battles. Each round was held between two players who were given the same (indefinite) integral to compute in a limited amount of time. The person to complete the task faster with higher accuracy would win the battle. The event was a huge success. With over 40 participants, the event kicked off with a preliminary round of computing integrals on a paper and continued into on stage battles on the blackboard, with live commentary (streamed in Facebook). The tournament concluded with a bang and a close call as the finalists literally ran to be the first one to stop the final ticking clock!
